TARGETING

COGNITIVE IMPAIRMENT

IN PARKINSON’S DISEASE

DO YOU HAVE TROUBLE WITH MEMORY OR YOUR ABILITY TO THINK?

Researchers at USC are looking for volunteers with Parkinson’s disease and memory or thinking complaints to determine if exercise and socializing can improve cognition.

THIS STUDY INVOLVES...
- Memory and Thinking Tests
- Fitness Testing
- Two Functional MRI Scans
- Caregiver Questionnaires
- Parkinson’s Disease Assessment
- Physical Exercise- 36 visits over 12 weeks or
- Social Engagement- 12-16 visits over 12 weeks
- Total participation time of 27 weeks minimum
- No cost to participants

VOLUNTEERS MUST BE
- Age 30-80
- Diagnosed with Parkinson’s disease
- Having trouble with memory and/or thinking
- Optimized on PD medications

FOR MORE INFORMATION 323-442-4035 lauren.hawthorne@med.usc.edu

Research study conducted by Giselle M. Petzinger, MD, Movement Disorders Specialist from the USC Department of Neurology

USC IRB HS-14-00422 Ver. Date 04/08/2015