V. Agenda

Public Comments - None

A. 2005-06 Master Plan for Education: Status of Institutional Objectives #14-#17: Updates were provided on the transformation of individual courses to incorporate student learning outcomes, the exploration of programs in emerging transportation and energy technologies, consideration of changing the English requirement for the AA degree, and the augmentation of noncredit course offerings.

B. Budget Scenarios: Postponed until April 26th meeting.

C. Student Activity Hour Discussion

- The consensus reached at the DPAC meeting of May 11, 2005 to schedule up to 70 classes during the activity hour was reviewed. This was a compromise to provide students with a choice of enrolling in a class or participating in campus activities and has a sunset of Spring 2007.
• It was reported that there are 142 on-campus classrooms available for Spring 2006 and 44 high demand classes are scheduled during activity hour. The number of classes is limited by the number of faculty available and most are part-time faculty.

• The use of the activity hour is used as a safety valve as it allows high demand classes to be added as needed.

• Approximately 1,000 students are involved in student activities and clubs. Participation in student activities promotes retention.

• It is important to recognize that the District is in a difficult financial situation and it is necessary to find a balance between student activities and increase enrollment where possible.

• In preparation for a future discussion to plan for the spring 2007, the following information will be provided: the number of students participating in student activities and clubs; consideration of alternative time for activity hour; the number of classes and enrollment offered during the activity hour; other special events/readings/enrichment programs offered during the activity hour.
