New Courses

ECE 84: Early Childhood Educator's Seminar

This course is an opportunity for in-service teachers to discuss both the practical and philosophical issues surrounding their own classroom practices. Topics include but are not limited to challenges working with children, collaborating with families and staff members, documenting children's work, meaningful early childhood curriculum, and environments and materials that promote learning. This class will provide opportunities for early childhood educators to build or maintain professional connections with other educators in the field. There will be a different focus each time this course is taught.
