New Courses

BIOL 31 Fundamentals of Biotechnology 2: From Genes to Proteins
This course will introduce students to fundamental molecular and protein chemistry techniques that are essential to the biotechnology field and workforce. This course is designed to prepare students to enter the growing biotechnology workforce or to transfer. Students that complete this course will be prepared for the biotechnology internship course and to take the Los Angeles Regional Bioscience/Biotechnology Industry-Valued Credential or equivalent exams. Topics explored in this course include maintaining an industry standard notebook, following and writing SOPs, and utilizing a digital quality management software; lab safety regulations, aseptic technique, and quality control protocols; preparing and sterilizing solutions, reagents, and experimental materials; usage and maintenance of state-of-the-art laboratory equipment; bioinformatics; and amplifying, extracting, purifying, and analyzing polynucleotides and proteins. These concepts are explored by means of class discussions and projects, reading assignments, and lab activities. The course is intended as preparation for the advanced biotechnology skills and methods courses as well as internships. By the end of the course, students should be able to demonstrate competency in following and editing SOPs, explain fundamental molecular and protein chemistry methods, and apply their training to use and maintain laboratory equipment.

BIOL 32 Cell Culture Methods & Techniques
This course will build upon students’ knowledge of cell and molecular biology by introducing students to techniques and methods that are critical for culturing, studying, and genetically manipulating eukaryotic cells. This course is designed to prepare students to enter the growing biotechnology workforce or to transfer. Students that complete this course will be eligible to take the Los Angeles Regional Bioscience/Biotechnology Industry-Valued Credential exam. Topics explored in this course include eukaryotic gene expression patterns and signal transduction pathways; biomanufacturing principles for eukaryotic cells; proper culturing and handling of eukaryotic cells; application of cell biology tools to manipulate and edit genes in eukaryotic cells; quality assurance & regulation; business, ethics, and biotechnology company structure. These concepts are explored by means of class discussions and projects, reading assignments, and lab activities. The course is intended as preparation for internships or transfer into biomanufacturing bachelor programs. By the end of the course, students should be able to describe and demonstrate aseptic technique; culture, maintain, and prepare eukaryotic cells for long-term storage; describe and perform cell specific assays; explain the layout and use required equipment to culture cells; and demonstrate knowledge of biotechnology applications and ethical practices.

BIOL 33 Immunoassay Methods
This techniques-focused course will provide knowledge and skills in the use of antibody-related reagents and antibody-based assays as a tool in biotechnology, biomedical research, or clinical laboratories. It focuses on the specific properties of antibody reagents for the identification and quantification of various biological or environmental molecules. Students learn basic immunology, the theoretical basis of antigen-antibody reactions, micropipetting techniques, and how to design, perform, analyze, and troubleshoot modern immunoassay-related techniques. The course will prepare students for work-ready skills in a bioscience research and biotechnology industry career.
BIOL 34A Scientific Communication for Regulated Environments
This course will provide students with an opportunity to build upon the technical communication and experimental design skills ascertained in prerequisite courses as well as provide students with interview preparation techniques. This course is designed to prepare students to enter the growing biotechnology/bioscience workforce or to transfer. Topics explored in this course include technical writing and record keeping for regulatory environments; the structure and formatting of scientific papers, oral presentations, and poster presentations; and advanced tools used in word processing, presentation, and spreadsheet programs. These essential workforce skills will be taught with a strong emphasis on the ways in which scientists in regulated environments discuss their investigations of the world around us and the ways in which they communicate their discoveries, questions, and understandings of this world with their colleagues and the rest of society. Students will analyze and understand the techniques scientists routinely deploy to inform and persuade their audience, the scientific community as well as the society at large. Through careful practice of some of these forms of scientific communication, students will improve their skills in engaging with their audience and develop a deep appreciation of the ethical and social obligations of being a citizen scientist.

BIOL 35 Nanobiotechnology
This survey course will introduce students to the broad field of nanobiotechnology by highlighting principles of nanoscience and nanotechnology and their applications in biomolecular, biomedical, medical, and environmental nanoscience. These concepts will be reinforced through research presentations from industry professionals that utilize the techniques and methodologies discussed during lectures. This course is designed to prepare students to enter the growing biotechnology workforce or to transfer. Topics explored in this course include the history of nanoscience and its impact on society; synthesis and characterization of nanomaterials; chemical properties and potential interactions in biological systems; and the industry and workforce applications of nanomaterials. The course is intended to supplement the advanced biotechnology skills and methods courses and to assist students in networking with industry professionals. By the end of the course, students should be able to demonstrate competency in the methods for fabricating and characterizing nanomaterials used in biological contexts; describe the impact that nanobiotechnology has on society; apply their knowledge of biotechnology and nanoscience to design a novel experiment; engage and communicate with industry professionals.

DANCE 31B Ballet 1B
This course develops beginning level concepts and principles of classical ballet technique with an emphasis on body alignment/placement. The class focuses on building consistency in the fundamental concepts of ballet technique and musicality, progressing from barre to center work at the beginning level. Movement vocabulary and phrases further develop strength, coordination, and flexibility. This course is a continuation of Dance 31A, preparing for Dance 32B.

DANCE 32B Ballet 2B
This course offers a low-intermediate level of classical ballet technique with an emphasis on refining aesthetic concepts and principles of classical ballet form. The class focuses on maintaining alignment/placement through barre and center combinations, with the goal of performing more intricate steps and movement vocabulary. Course progresses through low-intermediate level ballet steps and phrases designed to enhance strength, flexibility, endurance, and musicality. This course is a continuation of 32A.

New Programs
Biotechnology/Life Sciences Laboratory Assistant Certificate of Achievement
The life sciences/biotechnology sector has remained resilient during the COVID-19 pandemic, with the Los Angeles region generating $60.8 billion in economic activity in 2020 and hosting more than 1,000 life science innovation companies. It is projected that 16,000 technical jobs will be added to this rapidly growing sector within the next three years. The acceleration of the widening supply-and-demand gap, along with the need for highly skilled technicians, emphasizes the necessity to prepare students to become the next generation of highly skilled workers in this dynamic sector. The stackable Biotechnology Certificate program focusing on cell science and immunological testing will align academic offerings with industry needs and students will be trained in a curriculum that focuses on essential knowledge, state-of-the-art technical skills, and industry-required soft skills. Students will also receive an introduction to nanobiotechnology concepts and their applications in the biomedical, cell therapy, and immunological testing industries.

Creative Writing Certificate of Achievement
The Creative Writing Certificate provides students with the preparation needed to author works in creative writing, including works for personal development and/or professional application. Completion of the required courses in the Certificate Program provides a comprehensive foundation in the study and practice of creative writing, and guides students through varied and rich opportunities to dig deep into the power and properties of language and the craft of writing expressively.
This Certificate meets the needs of those students who wish to exercise their imaginations, think rigorously about craft and literature, generate and shape personal stories, prepare creative work for publication, and/or pursue professional opportunities in fields that rely on critical thinking, creative imagination, narrative skills, sensitivity to language and training in the craft of written communication. In the course of this program, students learn an incisive critical vocabulary, formulate and absorb constructive, critical feedback, and apply critical responses to multiple, iterative revisions of their work. The program also meets the needs of those in the community who wish to participate in a creative writing community.

Students who complete the Certificate read widely and closely from the work of writers who represent a variety of genres, styles, periods, aesthetic concerns, geographies, and perspectives, thereby gaining a deeper and broader cultural fluency. In the certificate program, student writers gain meaningful experience in collaboration (via the workshop model), public presentation (via sharing their work with an audience), and self-evaluation (via critical reflection about their drafts in progress).

Human Resources Management Certificate of Achievement
The Human Resources certificate program examines the policies and practices used by human resource management staff to build and maintain an effective work force. Topics include human resource planning, job analysis, recruitment, selection, performance appraisal, manpower development, compensation, and labor relations.

Sustainability in Business Certificate of Achievement
This program is designed for students who are interested in pursuing an entry level job position (or an upgrade of current skills and knowledge base) in the business field, with a focus on sustainability in business, and need a working knowledge of the fundamental concepts in this area of sustainability. This certificate of achievement in Sustainability in Business comprises four core courses, including Introduction to Sustainability in Business, Corporate Sustainability Reporting, Corporate Sustainability Strategies in Business, and Business Strategies and Social Sustainability.

Upon completion of this program, students will be able to demonstrate an understanding of the functions of Global Sustainability in Business and apply key concepts to this setting; explain the procedures of a Global Sustainable Supply Chain from sourcing input materials until the product reaches the end-consumer; demonstrate the procedures for Corporate Sustainability Impact Report (Environmental, Social and Governance Reporting (ESGs); evaluate the current Global Sustainability Corporate culture to determine best practices for building further sustainability in all organizations; and examine the role business plays in advancing diversity, equity, inclusion, innovation, activism and changing policies.

The goal of this course is to equip students with a strong understanding of Global Sustainability in the context of rapidly evolving Environmental, Social and Governance systems. These systems are impacted by various challenges such as scarcity of resources, climate change, limited access to clean water and diversity, equality and inclusion. In addition to gaining knowledge about these issues, students will also develop the necessary skills for entry-level employment and future career advancement. Achieving this certificate will set students apart from other candidates as 21st-century leaders when seeking employment in various fields, including Business. Additionally, individuals who are already working in Business can benefit from the certificate by expanding their knowledge and skills, increasing their chances for promotion. The Earth Science and Business Advisory Board has recommended this Certificate of Achievement.

Comment: The Adopted Budget needs to be amended to reflect the totals of the departmental budgets. The current system of the Los Angeles County Office of Education requires Board approvals each month for budget adjustments. Only the net amount of the transfers in or out of the object codes is shown. In addition to the budget adjustments, transfers result from requests by managers to adjust budgets to meet changing needs during the course of the year.
