

Escher's "Writing Hands"

English 1E-2165 (Fall 2020)

Hari Vishwanadha

This non-credit, free, online course offers students an opportunity to receive timely feedback on their rough drafts before submitting the final version of their assignments. Students can submit drafts of any assignment in any course they are enrolled in at SMC. English 1E is offered year round: Fall, Winter, Spring, and Summer—for the entire semester or session. Students may enroll at any time during the semester. Students will submit rough drafts online to the course home page in Canvas at online.smc.edu. The instructor will review the draft, offer suggestions for revision, and return it to the writer within 12-14 hours of submission. Often, the draft could be returned within three or four hours. Students can resubmit their drafts for further review and revision. In addition, the course features weekly online discussions on a variety of topics related to composition, ranging from the composing process to best practices of college-level research to the art of revision and more.

From 1 October to 29 November, the course also features a Transfer Application Workshop. Stay tuned for details.

The course will run from Monday 7 September to Monday 14 December.
